ECOLOGICAL ECONOMICS
vol. 16 no. 3 (September 2014)

Due to the economic drivers underlying resource use, economic knowledge is an essential component of sustainability. Indeed, economic studies have moved to the forefront of sustainable ecosystem management and recent research has focused on quantifying the monetary benefit of ecosystem services like pollination, water filtration, and carbon storage. This special issue (or dual issue) of Environmental Practice will deal with some of the recent work in the field of ecological economics.

We invite manuscripts that touch on an array of themes, but are especially interested in articles that deal with:

- valuing natural resources or ecosystems
- integrated ecologic-economic modeling
- using ecological economics to inform conservation
- case-studies where methods to replace GDP have been implemented at state and local levels
- application of ecological economics in the preparation of environmental assessments (EAs) and environmental impact statements (EISs)
- communicating ecological economics in the undergraduate curriculum
- communicating ecological economics by fostering sustainable behavior at different scales

We welcome a variety of perspectives and submissions from scholars, practitioners, and students.
